“ Alzina—the most fun and caring person that I was so lucky to have helped raise me. She was the one that taught me how to tie my shoes. She was the one I’d spend endless hours eating pecans with on the front porch swing, guessing what color car would be the next one to pass by. She also was the one that’d come with me sometimes to my dance lessons when I was little and was too shy to go on my own, and she’d dance right along with everyone! She was so influential to my upbringing, meant so much to me, and definitely played a big part in making me the person that I am today. She was just the absolute best. Heaven received quite an angel.
