“ I have so many memories of my sweet Maw. I’m gonna always remember her beautiful soft voice calling me every morning “good morning how are y’all this morning” or her laughing at my many cooking fails when I call her asking for help. So many time she had to walk me step by step to cook and it would never come close to how she cooks it. I’m gonna miss the smile on her face when we would travel to their house to come visit. She would be so excited to see us. Or even her cute little voicemails when I would miss her calls. I was so excited when she finally learned how to text last year. We had been trying to get her to learn for YEARS!!!! She was learning how to work her smartphone like a pro. Let’s not forget about her food. No one cooks better than my Maw! Boy I’m gonna miss that okra gumbo with everything in it. Or her sweet potato and fig pies. Every morning growing up she would make me toast with butter and sugar or grilled cheese bread in the microwave. I could write a book about all of our memories that I will miss. I love you so much maw. Idk how I’m gonna love without you but I know god will give me the strength. My beautiful Angel. I know you are making heaven GLOW with your presence. Until we meet again

“ My condolences to Mr. Joseph and Shanna. I learned so much in my short time with Mrs. Juanita. She was such a devout Catholic. I admired her devotion. She showed me what I need to do and be to serve Christ at my fullest potential. She constantly smiled, she never complained.. not even once. I’ve never seen anything quite like it. She was truly an angel on earth.... In a sense, I think she took care of me more than I took care of her at the end of the day. May you rest in PARADISE. The Heavens are beaming... <3

“Now is your time of grief, but I will see you again and you will rejoice, and no one will take away your joy” (John 16:22).
