LYRIC TIERRA THOMAS

June 24, 2010 to June 24, 2010

Opelousas, Louisiana

“Lyric’s Hand”

I held her after her last breath
Evaporated tears, nothing left
Warm and sweet,
smelled like me
I kissed her cheeks
Not wanting her to leave
But the journey
had begun
God gently took her hand
Til’ the end of time
I’ll never understand
Why’d he give her to me
Just to take her again
I hope she served her purpose
I hope she knows my heart
For an angel is not earthly bound That’s why she had to part
I’ll see her once again
For true love never ends
She will be waiting on me in Heaven
Gently extending out her hand

Lyric is survived by her loving parents, Leroy Thomas & Terrah Brown of Opelousas, Louisiana.

Funeral arrangements are entrusted to Williams Funeral Home, 337-942-2037.

“ Hello, You don't me but I was born and raised in Opelousas so I read the Daily World everyday to keep up because my mother is there. Your poem was so moving to me, I had to let you know that. I felt your words in my heart. Trust in God's comfort.
