“ My name is Nedra Simms, Mrs. Fontenot has known me as a child, I remember how kind she was whenever I went to visit with my Grandmother (Mama Simms), who held her in high respect and friendship. It's been many years since I've been home. But when I think of the Great Ladies of Baton Rouge and the visits, and how they would speak on their old days and how young people and education was changing, I was listening. Which I found to be life long information.

I'm 62 years old now and as a young lady I heard those wise words and used those words and the many conversations I heard to raise my children, grandchildren, and great-grandchild. I just wanted to say thank you to the words she spoke and to all the Great Black Ladies of Baton Rouge teaching pass and present. Their teachings was and is not in vain.

Family she was someone special to me. It wasn't what she did for me it was how she made me feel anytime I was around her. The kind words from the heart and the touch of welcome. My prayers are with all of you, Amen family .
