“ Montrel was a classmate of my son Brandon and he was such a loving child. It saddens me to learn of his passing but God truly needed this angel is what I know and want to share with his family. He was sent here to teach, touch and show others how to be strong, diligent and loving. My son has never liked to interact with other children and Montrel went out of his way to bring that out of him. To know that his “Buddy” will no longer physically be here to greet him and help to calm him down and get him to participate in class is hard. But to know he was able to have an impact on my son’s life by showing him what it was to be seen and accepted for who he is something I will cherish forever. To his parents, and family: I pray you find comfort in the fact that your son was born to be an angel. And now you forever have him to watch over you. God makes no mistakes, so though His plans are not always understood, they do work out for the good of those who love Him. So from my family to yours, we love you and will continue to pray for your strength.

“ I had been working with Montrel for a year at school, as one of his para's. He always had a big smile and warm hugs to give out every time he entered the room. The last time I worked with him we were doing work in ELA about Thanksgiving and the teacher ask the question "What are you thankful for?" He replied while writing my mom, my dog (Deedie) and my favorite foods. We truly will miss you.
