“ Mr. Mason was my Louisiana history teacher at Opelousas Jr. High when Opelousas schools first integrated. His career and mine are similar in the fact that teaching was not our first career, in having achieved our degrees in mid-life rather than immediately following high school. He was an understanding, effective and dedicated teacher who wanted his students to understand our geography and its local history within the context of world history. He was always a sensitive and caring professional that I will always remember as a model of integrity. I mourn his passing as one would to a guiding light that no longer shines. I'm pleased to know that he enjoyed a long life, certain in the fact that he positively influenced others, as he did mine - Johnny Fournier.
